Dear Simon

We are thrilled that Rally Challenges UK will be supporting Teenage Cancer Trust by holding rallies and other events to support teenagers and young adults who have had the devastating news that they have cancer. I'm certain that following the success of your last rally – The Two Towers Challenge, that you and your team will raise even more money with the next challenge, Big Ben to Land's End (and back again).

Since the Teenage Cancer Trust unit at The Marsden opened in January 2012 we have been providing age appropriate care to young people with cancer from across the South East. Building this state-of-the-art unit is just the first step. We receive no government funding so we need to continue to raise money for the ongoing staffing, operational and maintenance costs. This includes funding the Lead Nurse Consultant and Youth Support Coordinator who provide a range of physical, psychological and emotional support for patients.

We also fund a range of other services, including a free education programme which helps to educate young people about the signs and symptoms of cancer, a family support network, research into teenage and young adult cancer and an annual conference that brings together young people affected by cancer.

Thank you for your continued support of Teenage Cancer Trust in the South East, helping us to ensure that every young person diagnosed with cancer receives the best possible care and support.

With best wishes
